

The role of associations as industry growth drivers: achievements & future strategies

Industry associations have played an important role in the development of the biotech and life sciences industries over the past decades. Not only they provide a collective voice for the industry to align their interests with those of the public administration but also provide key information and resources to their members to grow and develop their businesses.

In this session we will review how leading organizations such as AseBio (Spain), BIO (U.S.A.), EuropaBio (Europe) and SLAS (U.S.A.) have contributed to the consolidation and growth of our industry, how the current covid-19 pandemic has affected them and their plans to adapt to a fast-changing environment, so they keep adding value to their members.

Moderator:

Ion Arocena, Managing Director, AseBio

Speakers:

Joseph Damond, Deputy Chief of Policy & Executive VP, International Affairs, BIO

Claire Skentelbery, Director General, EuropaBio

Vicki L. Loise, CEO, SLAS